conduct its own survey led to the method used.

"The cooperative effort between agencies was desirable because it provided the most inexpensive way to obtain necessary information," he said. "Also, the cooperation provided a learning experience and useful information for all agencies involved," Britton noted.

Although the survey itself has been completed, total computation of the information is still in progress.

ASCS Today

By Tom Conrad

Drought Flood Conservation Program

On August 16, 1977, the Appomattox County Development Group met at the ASCS office to develop the Drought Flood Conservation Program. This meeting was held so that certain conservation practices could be requested to be implemented in the county to help farmers alleviate conservation problems caused by the drought.

In developing the program, the group determined that the following three practices should be requested to be implemented in the county:

1. Establishing Permanent Vegetative Cover
2. Reestablishing or Improving Permanent Vegetative Cover
3. Interim Cover

The Development Group has developed these practices according to conservation needs in the county and has sent a request to the ASCSState Committee in Richmond asking that these practices be funded.

When funds are allocated to the county for these practices, a sign-up will be announced and farmers who would be interested in taking part in the program would come to the ASCS office and sign-up. The sign-up would be for a request to cost-share with the government for performing the named practices. In performing the practice, the ASCS office would pay 80% of the materials needed for the practice while the farmer would pay 20%.

As in all ASCS programs, each request would need to be reviewed by the County Committee before an approval could be issued. Approvals would be issued based on the conservation need of the farm, soil sample results and funding.

As of this writing, funds have not been received yet, but are expected to be received very shortly. Since soil samples are needed for these practices, it is my recommendation that if you will be interested in signing up under the program, you should get soil samples now and bring them to the ASCS office so that they may be sent to Blacksburg to be analyzed.

Complete details and a program announcement will be mailed to farmers when funds are received. In the meantime, if you have any questions concerning the program, please contact the ASCS office.

Facility Loan Program

Loans are available through the ASCS office for building structures for high moisture grain, grain silage or dry grain. Farmers can borrow up to 80% of the cost of buying and installing needed storage facilities and drying equipment not to exceed $50,000. The current interest rate is 7% and the loan is for five years. Anyone interested in this program should contact the ASCS office for complete details.

GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

HOW TO CLEAN SHADES

Most window shades today are treated so that they can easily be wiped clean with mild soap and water. Such care is not often necessary if shades are dusted or vacummed at regular intervals. How often cleaning is needed may depend on whether you live in the city, suburbs or country.

Shades that are not washable can be refreshed with a good wallpaper cleaner,or,in the case of a few soft-textured styles, professionally dry cleaned. When purchasing shades, always check to see which cleaning method is recommended.

Washable window shades may be spot cleaned with a damp cloth or sponge, and as little water as possible. Avoid letting water run onto other sections of the shade because this may cause marks that are difficult to remove. "Damp-rinse" each section separately and wipe it dry before going on to the next.

2. Reverse the shade and repeat the process on the other side.

3. Hang at the window, pulled down full length, until dry. Overnight is advisable for through drying.

4. Here is a finishing touch that insures best results: After the shade is completely dry, roll it up to the top of the window and leave it rolled up for 10 to 12 hours.

This simple roll up trick leaves your shade pristine and fresh for the season ahead -- as well as perfectly fat and 'trofied looking as brand new.

After such a dry, dusty summer, your window shades should be given some extra attention before winter. Your home environment will be much more pleasant with clean, fresh-smelling shades.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK PARTY SALAD

1 (20 oz.) can crushed pineapple
1 (6 oz.) pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
2 (3 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese, softened
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped pimiento

Drain pineapple, reserving juice; add enough water to juice to make 2½ cups liquid. Bring liquid to a boil; add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add cream cheese, blending until smooth. Chill until slightly thickened.

Fold remaining ingredients into gelatin mixture. Pour into an 8-inch pan and chill until firm. Cut into squares to serve. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Computers Will Hum In New Job Placement Program

(Editor's Note: The following is a story from the PAGE NEWS AND COURIER, Luray written about William C. Dudley, III, a native of Appomattox. We thought it would be of interest to our readers.)

WILLIAM C. DUDLEY, III

Computers will play a major role in finding jobs and training opportunities for Page County youth in a new county school system program this year.

The program, funded under federal Title LV-C, features a job placement center directed by William C. Dudley, III.

As job placement counselor, Mr. Dudley will coordinate use of a complex statewide computer system and a multitude of school and community resources.

"My job as counselor is an extension of what we are already doing, but I will concentrate on career and job counseling," Mr. Dudley said.

He noted that county high schools presently have six vocational training areas - Distributive Education, Industrial Cooperative Training, vocational agriculture, business education, home economics, and some building trades.

Mr. Dudley will work with students and "school leavers" - those who drop out before graduation for many reasons - to find jobs. And he will coordinate that task with various job training programs both inside and outside the county schools and with the business community.

"We look to cooperating with the Virginia Employment Commission and county manpower services in finding full-time, part-time, and seasonal jobs," Mr. Dudley said.

"Hopefully, the business community will realize we're trying to bring the school system to them to serve employers," he added.

Although the program is designed for high school students, elementary students will benefit from a file of resource people available to talk to students about jobs and careers.

Besides the computer terminals at each high school, one will be located in the job placement center in the basement of the Luray Post Office Building.

Mr. Dudley, 26, a native of Appomattox, has been involved in the vocational education field since his college days at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University where he received his BS and MS degrees.

In college, he wrote curriculum materials in agriculture and he's a member of Phi Delta Kappa honorary educational fraternity and the American Vocational Association.

He was a vocational counselor in the Montgomery County Alternate Route to School (ARTS) program and taught two years at Christianburg Middle School before coming to Luray High School last year as a vocational agriculture instructor.

He is a member of the Luray Rotary Club and the Luray Ruritan Club. He and his wife, the former Linda Martin of Appomattox, have a son, William, IV, a six-year old second grader at Luray Elementary School.

TRANSCO ORDERS PLATFORM FOR FARMOUT LEASE ON WEST CAMERON BLOCK 576

HOUSTON, TX - Aug. 16 - A nine-well, self-contained drilling and production platform is being ordered for West Cameron block 576, a farmout tract acquired by Transco Exploration Co. from Texaco Inc. and Tenneco Oil Co. The platform is expected to be delivered in the second quarter of 1978.

Transco Exploration, a wholly owned subsidiary of Transco Companies, Inc. has drilled two successful exploratory wells on the block which were drilled to total depths of about 7,900 ft., discovering two gas sands between 4,100 and 6,800 ft. On drill stem test one of the sands flowed four million cubic feet of gas per day on a 14/64-inch choke and a flowing tubing pressure of 3,100 lbs. per sq. inch. The other sand tested two million cubic feet of gas per day on a 16/64- inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 1,445 pounds per sq. inch. A third well has logged several potential pay sands and will be drilled further to evaluate the remainder of the underlying section.

All of the gas to be produced is dedicated to Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line, another subsidiary of Transco Co., Inc.
